

The State of the World

Intended Audience: Cadets Canada, Royal Canadian Legion, Canadian Forces

(Coordination by Cadets Canada with the MNR and RCMP is advised)

To put it bluntly, the 'first world' is in control of terrorists. The results of this will be highly unpleasant as they have been for many over a long time. However I have a plan that, if successful and proper, may assist with the morality of men in the future and facilitate, to some extent, the deescalation of the threat.

Threats

Automotive

Through technologies such as OnStar and similar to what is in all police vehicles, terrorists may crash or disable vehicles.

An "Autel Scan Tool" was something we used in college. By connecting a wireless 'antenna' to the OBD port, the scan tool may be used wirelessly while walking around the vehicle. The scan tool has an "Actuator Test" function that allows anything to be 'tested' including air bag deployment, individual electric windows, individual signal lights, horn, accelerator position and amount of fuel to engine, transmission shifting, brake lights (while the actual brakes are manual actuation).

The technologies in OnStar and Police Vehicles connect to what is known as the "CANbus". It is the same as the scan tool. In short, I believe that all actuator tests are available to someone with a connection to a vehicle. However it is software dependent. Meaning that if someone writes custom software they can ignore safety features designed in the original software and use it to crash or disable vehicles.

Aviation

Through the ACARS system in airliners, I believe terrorists can crash an aircraft. In the case of Airbus “Fly By Wire” in most new airbuses (NOT including CC-150 Polaris), the terrorists may be able to fly the entire plane and land it somewhere if they wished.

Through my staff experience on VATSIM and IVAO as a pilot/atc/trainer I learned that ACARS is a method of airlines communicating with the FMS on an aircraft. It allows the airline to know the position of every switch in the aircraft(black boxes may be good for nothing other than catching the people who crash the aircraft). In my opinion the possibility of being able to change what the computer believes the position to be of a switch(for example), is high. NOTE: FMC systems are more basic than a modern FMS, meaning turbo-prop aircraft are probably safer.

Internet

The modern internet and anything of significant importance that is on it, is based on one of three platforms: Google, Facebook, Yahoo. These three platforms use packages of software to make their “frameworks” work properly from NPM(Node Package Manager). Considering that police have ways to monitor someone's facebook and search history, it is probable that the terrorists have discovered the ability to do likewise. Everything on the internet is subject to terrorist control in my opinion.

That includes banks, power grids, facebook(blackmail whether real or false). What if a politician was being blackmailed that others would post things on their facebook that were not appropriate and claim that they derived from the politicians' facebook account?

Hypnotics

A method of interrogation and 'putting ideas into people's heads' is, I guess, by lowering the GABA in someone's body while sleeping.

There is a 'conscious' and 'unconscious' part of the brain. When in REM(rapid eye movement) sleep, the conscious part is not active, however the unconscious part is active. By lowering GABA during sleep, it makes sense to me that the body is no longer paralyzed during a dream(not normally remembered in the morning). A person probably would be awake while in a dream state including hallucinations and voices, though they don't remember in the morning. That is a state of 'honesty', interrogation and hypnotism. It is absolutely true that in severe cases, such as mine, the effects can be noticed in the morning and must be combated psychologically. I have learned how to combat it effectively.

If someone is in a state of hypnosis and told that they should sway while standing at attention, for example, then the unconscious mind may believe it to be desired and start to sway when standing at attention.

Victor Frankl said in his "Logotherapy" Psychology writings that 'if you are afraid that you will sweat while in a room of people, you should try to sweat more and it may stop'. It is quite simply the strong problem solvers, psychologists and philosophers that survive. Psychiatrists are ignorant and make problems worse in my opinion. I myself prefer to do what I want consciously without reverse psychology, by means of the Holy Spirit. Only the strong and learned survive.

Note: Some people get stuck in a dream state like in the movie "wolverine" where they don't know what's real anymore, the dreams or "ultimate reality". I can heal them, and possibly make a superhuman with little training. EI: The body can train itself in a dream and not remember the dreams in the conscious mind, assuming the unconscious is at peace with the conscious.

EDIT: I believe that I've learned how to remove the residual effects of future interrogation by bypassing the "Default Mode Network" of the brain, where the "ego" is said to be(after satisfactory ego and resistance to hypnotism). Simply psilocybin after confronting repressed emotions and meditation. It stimulates the brain and allows the "white matter", I believe, to unlock and in addition form new passageways for the brain to communicate and bypass the ego... It is noteworthy that to get through the interrogation itself requires a person to be so moral and honest that hurting them would be immoral for the interrogators(Matthew 5-7).

Thoughts

Deescalation is impossible because the terrorists would 'put more ideas in heads' using the hypnotics mentioned. Even if it were possible to stop all vehicles, ground all airliners, turn off all power grids, stop the flow of the world's financial institutions then a terrorist attack or panic would be in effect before completion I guess. If it were successful then all it takes is some more people hypnotized (at vehicle manufacturers or aircraft companies) for the terrorists to have the tech back again using simple radio technologies.

A Nuclear EMP is likely to be detonated, wiping out technologies and some peoples.

In the end, in my opinion it is best to give the future to the children. Cadets Canada(in correctional complexes suited for repurpose), MNR(provincial parks), RCMP(ranches), Native Reserves(spiritual centres?). The programs should be voluntary. However the children can provide a reason for a man to keep marching (I can say that from a recent personal experience). It ensures a hopeful future. They can, at the same time, be a measure of 'protection' because no-one would hurt them. In the event that 'big guns' are needed then the Canadian Forces can attend. Considering allowing the Hells Angels to camp around the 'main camps' as protection in exchange for food is probably wise because the name is respected, it would promote cooperation, and give people a reason to live if the children went out and provided life direction. I am the son of 'Walter Stadnick' (deceased HA and NOMAD National President) I guess and was raised separate from the HA, maybe for a reason. I'm trying to find my place.

Canada legally owes more money to its people than it can repay. That, in combination with my story, can probably make peace to an extent that it will open the eyes of some of the terrorists as to what harm they do, without causing panic.

I've had significant exposure to all people groups and am not aligned to any. I've been betrayed though now maybe it's time to discuss options.

CPL. Schpitzer, A (retarded) #288 Red Fox RCAC

NOTES:

My mom(Army Cadet) was the Assistant District Commander of the Legion and I am concerned about my safety and identity theft, by my parents and brother Aarik. It seems the name Aaron is preferable to him/them for some reason.

My grandpa is a NORAD ret.

When I was a Cadet I was written up for "pissing towards the roof of the porta-potty" though I was innocent, shortly after that our LT was injured.

I remember a Thompson Tank from prior to that (at the independent grossure where our car broke down) and it's probable that I was hypnotized in it and since?

The US may know something regarding it. I believe JFK did not die and Continuashun of Government was instituted. There may be two POTUS's going forward similar to how the Papacy was divided into an east and west in church history? Though I'm Canadian, someone should speak with the US because it makes sense that Walter Stadnick / "Walter Schpitzer" (dead HA and NOMAD National President known for speech) was probably where JFK went.

Interrogators are upset about my personal criminal history and certain body language as a result of continued hypnotism since childhood. They seem not to know about the state of the world.

There are 'therapy dogs' for the women in the jails, but I remember waking up with a destroyed but hole, dyed beard with different colored hairs still on my mattress, and cut hair and beard. The only memory I had was of being near the floor, crying, and almost tackling a brown poofy dog with a tan colored 'saddle' that I believe identifies them as therapy dogs. The prison guards, or at least some of them are rapists.

I believe with a high degree certainty that NOSM(Northern Ontario School of Medicine) is involved in the terrorism or at least intterogation. I was at their school facility once and on a 'tour' I was shown a mouse maze where they trained mice to complete 'mini missions'. One such mouse came into my jail cell recently while I was falsely imprisoned. That jail doesn't normally have mice, I've been to one that does.

Injustice in Canada

The Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms(signed by Her Majesty the Queen), paid for by the blood of the veterans, guarantees certain rights to all Canadian Citizens (people with DNA and residing in Canada).

The most obvious example of a breach is when the Huaway Executive was being held in Canada. According to law, everyone in Canada has the right to leave.

In fact, Canada owes more money than it can repay to its people.

The only criminal charge that I was found guilty of by way of trial was "Assault Resist Arrest", meaning that I would've had to assault an officer as I was being arrested for something else. It was not "Assault Police". So a valid question is what charge was I under arrest for? None!

The last charge I was in jail for demanded 120 days of custody. I wanted to fight at trial so I did ~420 days before I plead guilty without a trial in exchange for immediate release. I did more than three times what they were asking upon waiving my trial, and eventually did waive the trial.

Publishing anyone's name in the newspaper for being charged with a crime is illegal. Police commit privacy offences by briefing the media. The media commits privacy crimes by publishing. Everyone is innocent until proven guilty in Canada, or at least supposed to be. Even upon a guilty verdict, it would still be illegal by law to publish anything.

A Habeas Corpus is a 'Charter Right' that requires a detention custodian to prove 'why they are allowed to detain someone' to the court. It is supposed to be 'the most normal way a man who has been deprived of his liberty unjustly is restored to liberty'(ruling from Court of Common Pleas). In my documentation and experience, they have ignored this law.

Every regulating body available in Ontario has practically been exhausted by me. I have documentation.

Police Specific:

In Canada, if a police officer or “Special Entry Person” says to a suspect that their name is something that it is not, then that is known as “identity fraud”.

In Canada, tapping phones and computers is illegal. It does not fall under FISA for domestic police (Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms and privacy law affords more privacy rights). According to Canadian Law the only electrical device warrants that may be issued are for phone fraud on a dedicated phone line. I’ve got nothing to hide, however Canada owes more money than it can repay and it is simply a point to that. Either there is a crime or there is not.

Medical:

If someone refuses medical assessment, they cannot be held by a hospital under the Mental Health Act from the moment they refuse also. That is according to the Health Care and Consent Act HCCA, made in adherence to the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms. Our people are hurting and under duress.

A paper has been signed by a doctor that states I am unable to consent to my treatment. I had not had a consensual assessment done by the doctor prior. Nor was I already receiving treatment. To be capable of consent, by law, someone needs to be able to understand treatment options available. The doctor’s opinion seems to be that she doesn’t respect my decision and did the papers to say I’m unable to consent. I am currently on an order to receive an injection of antipsychotics monthly with a dose that started at four times the maximum starting dose.

Recommendations

I want to tell my story of injustice. In the amount of detail that I intend to do so I believe it would deter the people interrogating me and possibly others in the future.

Publicising the “sleep paralysis” hypnosis may be worthy of consideration. Door chains(not hotel style ‘clip’ chains) may solve people’s worries.

I believe that sitting down with Canadian and US Forces at CFB North Bay (NORAD) to discuss options is best. The government has not honored the blood of our veterans that was spilt in WWII. The highest law in Canada calls for simple laws to be followed. They are not being followed. After experiencing the failure of most regulating bodies and fields of study it is probable that each community and city can affect an immediate change to the way they operate. Simply removing the stupid policy and tackling the issues.

There are good people and bad people, it is that simple. In Canada people can do what they want and the law cannot stop them. The system is crooked. It ought to be simplified.

Since Canada owes more than it can repay, money is possibly better to become non-existent. We all have the right to gainful employment. Our Royal Canadian Mint prints money independently from internationally. So trade may still work as it already is.

Huge immediate changes are our only chance. If we remove money and have simpler courts to address issues then it may succeed. Maybe if we in Canada can increase morality, then the rest of the world will follow. That is assuming we aren’t nuked prior, though militarily we may be able to make large preparations if these changes were underway. What good is money when the nukes hit?

The US taking a stance (even a passive declaration of war to be stood down) may be wise, simply so that there is not any way for the US to be hypnotised into declaring war on Canada in a negative way upon changes.

Healing the people with mental health issues should be easy, including those jumping between “ultimate reality” and dreamland. Making ‘superhumans’ is also probably an option as previously mentioned.
